ROCK PLANT LIST

All the plants in the following list are hardy, true to name and suited to almost all parts of the United States. Nearly all the plants we send out are pot grown to assure a good root system and lessen the shock of transplanting. The Heathers and a few other plants that do not like pot culture are field grown. All our plants are wrapped individually and carefully with all their roots and soil ball protected in damp peat moss and waterproof parchment paper. Our plants are never shipped bare root or wrapped five or ten to a bundle. All our plants are young, healthy and "rarin' to go." We never send out old, tired, overgrown, messy field clumps.

HEATHERS or CALLUNA VULGARIS

The Heathers are dwarf shrubs of indispensable value for the rock garden both for their neat and attractive evergreen foliage and for their colorful flowers that come in July and August when color is most needed. All the varieties listed below are perfectly hardy and quite distinct either in habit of growth or in color. No garden is complete without a quota of these fine specimens. All require an acid leafmold or peaty soil and at least four hours of full sun.

WHAT IS ROCK GARDENING?

OF all the specialized interests in gardening, there are none that encompass as varied or absorbing a choice of plant materials as those available to the rock gardener. This type of gardening depends primarily upon the wild or native species of plants that are available by the thousands from amongst dozens of plant families. These may be annuals, biennials, herbaceous perennials, shrubs or bulbs that emanate from mountains, bogs, woodlands, heaths or arid plains from any continent.

Rock gardening does not necessarily imply the use of stones, rocks or outcrops, but basically deals with the cultivation of the innumerable wild species that have so enriched this earth. In order to co-ordinate and direct the pronounced interest that had become manifest in rock gardening and rock garden plants, The American Rock Garden Society was organized in 1934 as the authoritative national organization.

Its objectives have been to encourage and promote:

- a) the cultivation and knowledge of rock garden plants, their value, habits and geographical distribution
- b) interest in good design and construction of rock gardens
- c) to hold meetings and exhibitions
- d) plant exploration and introduction of new species and forms
- e) study of history and literature on the subject
- f) acquaintance between members and groups with the resultant mutual exchange of experience and knowledge.

In order to further these objectives the following are available to members:

1. AMERICAN ROCK GARDEN SOCIETY BULLETIN

This is published Quarterly, is an authoritative illustrated journal containing valuable information relative to plants, their cultivation and sources, exploration and introduction plus news and items of interest to members. The columns of the BULLETIN are available to members for various purposes.

2. SEED EXCHANGE

This lengthy seed list makes available to members the seeds of many first rate plants plus rare and unusual ones that are not readily obtainable from other sources.

3. COLORED SLIDE COLLECTION

These slides are of the 35 MM size (2" x 2") and are available to members for showings before groups, garden clubs, etc. The collections are increasing and comprise excellent illustrations of members gardens and plants. Valuable cultural suggestions plus the name of the donor of the slide are furnished on leaflets accompanying each collection of slides.

4. REGIONAL GROUPS

In order to deal intelligently with the subject of rock gardening under varying climatic and geographical conditions, a number of local member groups have been formed. Such organized units are under the leadership of a Regional Chairman, direct their own activities but are closely affiliated with the national organization.

We welcome your correspondence concerning any phase of our activities.
